

Callian

Role: Main male character

Character Description: Raised up in a family of wizard bloodline. As he got older, Callian grew an interest for Necromancy that placed a growing wedge between him and everyone except Lorelei who accepted him for his weirdness. It wasn't long after when he found out he was a void walker, a being who can jump world to world at free will. Due to dark, chaotic events, Callian took Lorelei with him as he ran off.

Personality: Has varied moments of being blunt when being a nerd or casual when informal. More mellowed out/laid back when Lorelei is present due to their spiritual bond. When she's not around, is more on the short-fused side.

Age: 28

Lines:

1. "How much of that is true though. I mean, an ancient book of death pops up and someone really wants to buy it? Whose to say they paid a little extra to keep their name out of the record books."
2. "You have no idea how bad I wanna slam on the brakes right now."
3. "If anyone else had her in their possession, they would force her to use her powers till it drained and killed her. If they even knew how to activate a Narvarian witch's powers, that is. She may be a key to everyone else's problems, but it's her decision. Not theirs."
4. "Alright, these are Lorelei's friends. You are my cousin—from Wisconsin. If they ask...Lorelei is at Saphora's."